

ReUnite™ Professional Network

Platform Status

ReUnite™ is currently in the development stage of a secure platform designed to connect families and professionals involved in reunification and family reconnection processes.

The early professional network is being built in advance of the full platform launch so that qualified professionals are already present when families begin using the system.

Early Participation Overview

ReUnite™ is currently building an international network of professionals who support families navigating separation, parental alienation, and reconnection.

The platform is being developed to connect families with qualified professionals across multiple disciplines while providing tools and resources that support safe and responsible reunification.

At this early stage, ReUnite is inviting professionals to participate in the foundational development of the network.

Early Network Participation

Professionals joining the early network will be able to:

- create a professional profile within the ReUnite network
- appear on the interactive professional map, searchable by profession and geographic region
- receive potential referrals from families seeking professional assistance
- contribute feedback on how the platform should operate in their jurisdiction

Participation in the early network is currently free of charge.

ReUnite™ does not charge professionals to join the network.

Referral Model

ReUnite™ is developing a referral-based platform designed to connect families with qualified professionals.

Under the planned structure:

- professionals remain independent practitioners
- professionals manage their own services, pricing, and professional responsibilities
- ReUnite may facilitate introductions between families and professionals

ReUnite™ only receives a commission when professional services are provided through platform referrals.

No fees are charged to professionals for simply being listed in the network.

Future Participation Models

As the platform grows, professionals may have the option to choose between different participation models depending on their region and professional regulations.

These models may include:

Referral Commission Model

A percentage-based commission applied only when a case originates through a ReUnite platform referral.

Professional Listing Model

An annual listing fee that allows professionals to maintain a verified profile on the platform without referral commissions.

The appropriate model may vary depending on:

- professional licensing regulations
- local legal restrictions
- professional association rules
- regional pricing structures

Professionals will be able to select the model that best fits their practice once the platform is fully operational.

Professional Independence

Professionals participating in the ReUnite network remain fully independent.

ReUnite™ does not control professional services, legal advice, therapy, investigations, or mediation conducted by professionals listed on the platform.

Each professional remains responsible for their own services, licensing compliance, and professional standards.

Regional Collaboration

Because professional regulations vary significantly between countries and regions, ReUnite welcomes feedback from professionals regarding what participation structure would work best in their jurisdiction.

Professionals are encouraged to share suggestions, regulatory considerations, or partnership ideas by contacting:

info@reunitehelp.org

Input from professionals will help shape the platform as it expands internationally.

Multidisciplinary Network

ReUnite™ is developing a network that may include professionals such as:

- reunification therapists
- psychologists and counselors
- family mediators
- legal professionals
- investigators and information specialists
- child-focused professionals
- family support organizations

The goal is to build a multidisciplinary ecosystem capable of supporting families through complex reunification processes.

Interactive Professional Map

Professionals accepted into the early network will appear on the ReUnite professional map.

Families will eventually be able to search the network by:

- profession
- geographic location
- specialization

This structure allows families to identify professionals available in their region while preserving professional independence.

Platform Development Status

ReUnite™ is currently developing the technology infrastructure required to support the platform.

The early professional network is being built in parallel so that families can access qualified support as soon as the platform becomes operational.
